Handwritten text in Telugu script on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 12 horizontal lines. There is a significant circular hole on the left side and a smaller irregular hole in the center of the leaf. The script is dense and characteristic of traditional Telugu inscriptions.

Handwritten text in Devanagari script on palm leaves, arranged in two horizontal strips. The script is dense and appears to be a form of Vedic or classical Sanskrit. The top strip contains approximately 15 lines of text, while the bottom strip contains approximately 12 lines. There are significant gaps and damage to the leaves, particularly in the center of the top strip and the middle of the bottom strip, where the text is missing. The ink is dark, and the background of the leaves is a light brown/tan color.
